About the Conference

Investing in women in academia, this conference is organized in the context of the status, the rights, and the challenges that women encountered in academia in Jordanian universities. This conference is organized by the Association of Jordanian Women in cooperation with the University of Jordan.

The Association of Jordanian Academics was founded on May 7, 2014 by a group of Jordanian women academics representing a wide range of Jordanian public and private universities. It aspires to bring Jordanian women academics to a prestigious and a professional level that enables them to bring about change and development to serve their community, to promote scientific research to higher levels, and to support higher levels of participation in decision making at all levels of their academic institutions .
